

Chain of Custody – All individuals who handle the water sample are documented on the chain-of-custody form to show each unbiased professional who had access to the sample and is verified by their signature and the time and date that the sample changed hands. This is necessary if legal proceedings are required regarding the water sample results.